Ernest McCall.

With profound regret our people learned of the death of Ernest McCall which sad event occurred very suddenly at Glidden Thursday afternoon.

Deceased was an engineer on the Southern Pacific Railroad, running between San Antonio and Houston; while out on his run he was taken critically ill at Glidden, his death being attributed to acute indigestion.

Mr. McCall was well known in this section, being the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCall; he came to this county while quite young, with his parents, and grew to man's estate among the people of this vicinity, and was universally esteemed.

The body was brought to San Antonio for interment, the funeral to occur today.

Mr. Thomas McCall, father, and Mrs. Isaac Wilson, sister, left immediately on receipt of the news of his death for San Antonio to be present at the funeral, which will occur in that city today. Mrs. J. W. Bailey, another sister, and Mr. Isaac Wilson, brother-in-law, also went to the city this morning to be present at the funeral.

Besides his parents, deceased is survived by a wife and five children, two sisters, Mrs. Isaac Wilson and Mrs. J. W. Bailey of Hondo; and three brothers, Lacy McCall of Bryan, George of Corpus Christi, and Henry of Hondo.

To the grief-stricken widow and orphaned children, and the other relatives who are saddened by the untimely death of Mr. McCall the Anvil Herald joins a host of other friends in extending condolence in this their hour of great sorrow.

Women Must Pay Poll Tax.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 4. — Women are subject to the payment of a poll tax the same as men under the provisions of the so-called "Better School Amendment" to the constitution recently adopted, according to state officials here, and it is understood that an opinion has been asked the attorney general on the subject, but Assistant Attorney General W. E. Keeling stated that so far no official opinion has been given on the proposition.

It is expected however that this matter will be specifically determined by the legislature when it passes an enabling act to put this amendment into operation. — San Antonio Light.

Leap Year Dance.

One of the most elaborate dances that has been given at the auditorium was the Leap Year dance which was planned and carried out by the girls and matrons of Hondo.

The hall and stage were decorated in the Christmas holiday spirit, mistletoe and bells over the windows and doors and long streamers of Christmas colors leading from each corner to an ornate center decoration. Here a large wheel had been suspended from the ceiling and festooned in moss, bells and mistletoe.

When Homen's Orchestra struck into a stirring march, a long file of dancers formed with Miss Bess Brucks and Tom Carter as leaders and formed several figures of the grand march.

When the programs were distributed a great deal of merriment was caused because the girls had to secure their partners for the entire evening and applaud for the encores.

A buffet supper was served between 11 and 12 to over 100 guests who were unanimous in their praise of the girls' success in putting on their "Leap Year Dance."

Those deserving much credit for the success of the dance, were Mrs. R. J. Noonan, Mrs. Oscar Miller and Mrs. Robert Decker.

To The Pecan Growers of Texas.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 1, 1921.

I take this method of impressing upon you individually that the marketing problem of our 1921 Pecan crop which now promises to be much above the average, is yet to be solved.

The Legislative Committee appointed by the Pecan Growers will see that a suitable bill looking to the profitable marketing of your pecan crop will be introduced. But the results of our efforts in securing the passage of such a measure will depend on YOU. The Legislature will help us if you will remind your Representative that you wish them to support such a measure. Combine with your neighbors and all other pecan growers throughout the State. Organize a Local Association and begin now to prepare for the coming marketing season. Don't do as the cotton growers have done and as the Pecan Growers and other Texas producers have done in the past, but begin in time. Assert your right and enforce it, to have some say about the value of your pecan crop the coming season.

If you delay making arrangements for perfecting plans to sell your 1921 pecan crop until the crop is ready to go on the market it will be too late. The expense of selling your pecans through an exchange of your own will not cost you exceeding two cents per pound the first season and will possibly be less than one cent, and the price will be enhanced several cents per pound by virtue of the growers organizing and selling collectively and co-operatively. Please drop me a line to let me know that you are still interested in the marketing organization. A post card will do.

Wishing you a Happy and Prosperous New Year, and hoping to hear from you at an early date saying you are still GAME and that you will co-operate with us in perfecting a Pecan Marketing Agency owned and controlled by the growers themselves. I am,

Sincerely and truly your Servant,
J. H. Burkett, (Clyde Texas)
Nut Specialist,
State Department of Agriculture.

San Antonio, Texas, Dec. 30, 1920.

In an effort to warn the farmers of Southwest Texas to beware of what is known as the "Jack Bean," C. H. Alyord, Secretary of the Agricultural Department of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, is calling the attention of the seed dealers and county agents in this territory to circular No. 92, issued by Department of Agriculture, which fully treats of the plant and the imposition connected with the disposal of the seed.

In certain parts of south Texas last year considerable interest was aroused in a so-called coffee bean which was sold under contract to farmers at a price of $25 per bushel, sellers contracting to buy back the crop from the farmers at the rate of $6 per bushel.

The bean which these promoters were trying to sell is described in Department of Agriculture circular No. 92 under the name of "Jack Bean." It is a plant that has long been known to the Department of Agriculture but no beneficial use of it has ever been worked out. Some years ago the Mississippi Experiment Station experimented with this bean and endeavored to feed it to cattle. The forage was so bitter that the cattle would not eat it and when steers were forced to eat the bean, they made very little gain. It is said these beans have some times been used as a human food in Mexico but serious digestive disturbance has usually followed.

The attention of the Department of Agriculture has recently been called to this misrepresentation and officials of the Government have recently notified the managers of this company that they must not advertise this bean as a coffee bean but if they do advertise it, must advertise it only as a substitute for coffee. It would thus appear that the Department of Agriculture has been able to break up an imposition of considerable proportion that was attempted to be worked on the farmers of south Texas.

There will be a meeting of the Royal neighbors at their hall on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 11th, at 3 o'clock. All members are urged to attend.

He gives expert advice on the care and improvement of native pecan groves and makes practical demonstrations of budding and grafting improved varieties into native stock. The pecan crop of Texas under normal years is a considerable asset to the people of Texas, adding many thousands of dollars to the total values of the crop production of the State. Medina county is fortunately located in the heart of the pecan producing area of our state, but not much has been done to improve the great gift nature has bestowed upon us in our natural pecan groves. Our county needs many more visits from men like Mr. Wallace. May the good work he is doing be multiplied many fold.

St. Joseph Woman States She Was On Verge Of Giving Up When Friend Recommended Tanlac.

"My quick and complete relief by taking Tanlac was certainly a very welcome surprise to me," declared Mrs. Maggie Brown of 604 East Kansas Avenue, St. Joseph, Mo.

"For two years," said Mrs. Brown, "I suffered from a general nervous, rundown condition, and felt tired and worn out all the time. My appetite was poor, I ate scarcely anything and became so weak that I could hardly get around and even a little housework was a burden to me.

"I had terrible headaches and dizzy spells, my nerves were upset by the least little noise and I was too restless to sleep well.

"I could tell that I was improving right along before I had even finished my first bottle of Tanlac. I have taken four bottles and my appetite is just splendid, I am never troubled with indigestion, and I have already gained ten pounds. My nerves are perfectly normal and I never slept better in my life than I do now. Tanlac has restored my health and strength, and I certainly do recommend it to anyone in a condition like I was."

Tanlac is sold in Hondo by W. H. Windrow; in Castrovilla by Joseph Courand & Co.; and in Dunlay by Louis A. Haby; and by all leading druggists.

Summer Music in America

Review of the Hot Weather Music in New York and Elsewhere in this Country

By John H. Daly

Just a few years ago, the first of May was the end of all musical activity. To find a recital after that date was indication of the debut of some fledgling artist or a sign of his previous inability to secure a stage. Passenger lists of steamships leaving our shores read like "Who's Who in Music." Anyone of prominence in that art felt obliged to leave our shores and spend as much time as possible in Europe. That they were justified in this was possibly true. Even a month's stay in France improves your Gallic tongue, and six weeks in Italy will help your fluency in the vernacular of Verdi. But their chief object was to spend even a little time in artistic atmosphere, before August 1914, supposed to be the exclusive possession of Europe.

CONSUELO ESCOBAR DE CASTRO

The poor public in these United States, some hundred million strong, contented itself with the local band concert. How we did look forward to that evening's music in the public square. If we were in the country, all day might be spent in the refreshing shade of the full-leaf tree, or beside the cooling river, but how eagerly we headed for the town center for the weekly musical offering. If July and August found us in the sweltering city, we sought the small district park, where, with thousands of others, we would enjoy the band's effort, even if horns of passing autos and clangs of nearby trolleys intruded themselves into the old, sweet song.

Strange that no successful attempts were made, save in the recent years, to hear prominent singers or orchestras under the open sky, or in some hall where the rigid decorum of the winter season does not rule. Many of us longed for the customs of the Continent in summer, when gathered around an informal table, we could enjoy the best music, while we imbibed wine or beer. The orchestra was always respectfully heard, but the evening called for relaxation.

New York was the first to imitate this idea, some four or five years ago, and it has since grown rapidly. This summer, the Stadium attached to the College of the City of New York, was occupied by a full symphony orchestra, under the baton of Walter Rothwell. Particularly adapted for the performance of great music was this magnificently proportioned amphitheatre, situated on an eminence, the city spread out at its feet in long lanes of light. There every evening a varied program of the best music was offered, at low prices. The European Music Garden was imitated and refreshments served at small tables by white-coated waiters. Of course the famous brews had to be impersonated by grapejuice, but the idea of spending the evening in easy conventionality was achieved. The numbers played conformed to such a notion. Walter Rothwell, the conductor, performed only various movements rather than a whole symphony, which he regarded as too heavy for the season. Mr. Rothwell is a director of ability, but the orchestra was far from under his baton was far from finished. Their programs were monotonous, and popular interest would have been killed if practically all the prominent artists summering in this country had not appeared as soloists. The night Arthur Middleton sang, the enthusiasm was high and Marie Rappold also stirred a large audience to great demonstrations, but the orchestra itself would have been powerless to command popular interest.

In addition to the music at the Stadium, a series of free band concerts was offered at Columbia University. Few places are more suitable than the "Green" where Edwin Franko Goldman and his band of sixty pieces held their

St. Louis, Mo., also had a successful run of summer opera at Forest Park.

To show that the demand for music in summer reached the other side of our continent, Tacoma, Washington, continued the series of recitals inaugurated last year. There was no symphony orchestra, but the presence of well-known vocalists easily compensated.

Especially fortunate was the management in securing Merle Alcock, the contralto known to the whole country, but especially beloved by her native West. Her natural gift of song and artistic interpretation helped greatly in the enjoyment of this series held in the Stadium, which overlooks the blue waters of Puget Sound, with the evergreen forests, and snowy mountains beyond.

third season. Seven thousand people occupied the seats provided by the management, and it was usual for five thousand more either to bring their own cushions and chairs, or sit on the grass. This conductor, also, had in mind the heat of the season and the varied musical tastes of his listeners. He insisted on variety, and pieces of the same nature never followed one another. He felt that the evening would be enjoyed only if silence was secured, and that people would respectfully wait for the next if the present number had no appeal.

At Ocean Grove, the well known summer resort in New Jersey, a series of summer concerts was held this summer, at the Auditorium, and a number of prominent artists appeared. The quality of the series can be gleaned from the fact that Margaret Matamoros was among the featured singers, along with many others from the Metropolitan Opera Company.

This desire for summer music was felt throughout the country. Chicago, no longer satisfied with opera only in winter, finished the second summer season at Ravinia where natural beauty and artistic life are joined. There were two weeks of opera for which Louis Eckstein had gathered a brilliant aggregation of stars. There was a spirit and enthusiasm in this past that seem to pass from the audiences and inspire the artists. Enthusiasm was greatly aroused over the debut of Consuelo Escobar de Castro, as Lucia.

Detroit adopted the European idea at Arena Gardens, where its own orchestra played. Growing rapidly as this city had in music a summer season was inevitable. Admission prices were low, refreshments served, smoking permitted. An appeal was made to the young, through the dancing that followed, furnished by a military band.

St. Louis, Mo., also had a successful run of summer opera at Forest Park.

No Worms in a Healthy Child

All children troubled with Worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC cures rapidly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a general Strengthening Tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or dispel the worms, and the Child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. 60c per bottle.

Information To Telephone Users.

Manager J. B. Hurt of Hondo says that on January 1, 1921, the Telephone Company will change the practice in regard to the pronunciation of the figure "0" in repeating telephone numbers. Heretofore in Texas we have called this "Naught." We are going to change it to "Oh."

The figure "0" in a telephone number is, correctly speaking, a figure; and as such, it is, as Texas calls it, "Naught." But all the rest of the country is now considering it the letter "O" and calling it "Oh."

Because all the rest of the states, in their business language, call 0 "Oh," Texas proposes to do the same thing, because our business, our association, our influence and our communication certainly extends, in every direction, far beyond the borders of this state, great though she may be.

The telephone authorities in Texas have been reluctant to ask the people of Texas to abandon their correct practice for this up-to-date business method, which has business expediency rather than right to recommend it. However, the business life of Texas, being to a very great extent an interstate existence, now justifies, at least in the opinion of the Telephone Company, the adoption of this universal business practice in our telephone language, in Texas.

Owing to the rapid development of Texas there is a constant influx of people from without our borders. They are accustomed to the telephone customs of other states and for us to differ from these other states in so essential a particular leads to confusion in the use of telephone service.

Rapid development sometimes is accompanied by error through carelessness, haste or ignorance, but in this matter of pronunciation, Texas, although the heart of the most rapidly developing part of our country, has tenaciously clung to that which we thought was correct, but as the rest of the states have, one after another, abandoned the use of "naught," therefore, for the sake of expediency and for the sake of uniformity we, in Texas, will on January 1, 1921, when speaking telephone numbers, discontinue the use of the figure "naught" and substitute in its place the letter pronunciation "oh."

The arguments for and against the two pronunciations of the symbol 0, as used in a telephone number, are long and tedious, and it takes an expert judicial mind to make a decision after all the arguments have been heard.

On the other hand, there is not much room for discussion as to what is best from the standpoint of business expediency.

HEALTH RESTORED.

"My horse was in such run down condition, I thought he would die. After feeding him Dr. LeGear's Stock Powders, he is as well as ever and is now as good looking a horse as there is in this section."—J. C. Huste, Rockbridge Baths, Va.

Dr. LeGear's Stock Powders build up the body, vitality and muscular energy of your horses and mules, insure more meat with less feed, and help your hogs, sheep and cattle, and help your cows produce more and richer milk.

Mr. Huste's small expenditure saved him the price of a horse. Dr. LeGear can also help you. For 28 years as a Veterinary Surgeon and Expert Poultry Breeder he has devoted himself to the compounding of remedies for ailments of stock and poultry. Whenever you have an ailment among your stock or poultry get the proper Dr. LeGear Remedy from your Dealer. It must satisfy you, or your money will be refunded.

Nature Tells You.

As Many a Hondo Reader Knows Too Well.

When the kidneys are weak, Nature tells you about it. The urine is nature's index. Infrequent or too frequent passage. Other disorders suggest kidney ills. Doan's Kidney Pills are for disordered kidneys.

Hondo people testify to their worth. O. H. Getter, retired painter, Hondo says: "Several years ago I was taken with a terrible backache and my kidneys acted irregularly. On stooping over it was an effort for me to straighten up again. Nights I had to get up frequently to pass the kidney secretions, which were scanty, highly colored and scalding. I felt tired and worn out all the time and had no ambition to do anything. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and started their use. After taking two boxes of Doan's my back was strong and my kidneys acted regularly."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Getter had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

In Remembrance of our Beloved Grandpa Graff.

Dead, yes dead do we call him;
Grandpa, oh! must that be you!
A flower faded and vanished,
A heart that was tender and true.

Gone, yes gone! he has left us.
Grandpa, forever did we part;
Joy or sorrow does always come,
Sorrow for us is very hard.

True, yes true, he was to all
Smiles forever upon his face,
Sorrowful we looked upon him,
E'er was given his resting place.

Lonely the house and sad the home,
Since our dear one has gone;
But oh! a brighter home than ours
In heaven is now his own.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is still,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.

Dearest Grandpa, thou has left us,
And our loss we deeply feel;
But 'tis God that has bereft us,
He can all our sorrows heal.

Left us! yes, forevermore,
But we hope to meet our loved one
On that bright and happy shore.

By two of his grandchildren,
J. M. and E. M.

Constipation Should be Stopped.

San Antonio, Texas, Dec. 30, 1920.
As a striking testimonial to the ideal climate of Southwest Texas, seven of the Major League Base Ball Teams will train in this section in 1921. Florida has formerly been the favorite place of major league ball tossers, but next season seven clubs will be found working their players into condition under the invigorating sunshine of the Lone Star State.

San Antonio will have two clubs, the New York Giants and the Detroit Tigers. The Tigers trained in this city in 1908-09, both years they won the pennant in the American League and President Navin is anxious to have his team return to San Antonio to be instilled with the aggressiveness which characterized their playing during their two former conditionings here. McGraw has already spent two seasons in San Antonio and has held for several years that Texas is the ideal state in which to condition men for the grind of the base ball season.

New York scribes were loud in their praise in the columns of the Metropolitan dailies of the conditions they found in San Antonio and the treatment accorded newspaper men and team during their training here, and are expressing themselves with delight that the Giants will return to Texas in the Spring.

Detroit Sport writers are also expressing themselves as pleased that the Tigers have chosen new pastures, as the early spring showing of the Bengals has been far from satisfactory for the last few years.

Chas. Bohmfalk spent New Year's day with home folks at Yancey.

The tax collector's office is now supplied with auto seals and auto owners would do well to call and procure them for their cars.

The rabbit drive last Saturday resulted in the destruction of a large number of rabbits, but we have been unable to get the exact number slain. Jack Fusselman organized him a little rabbit drive of his own down on his Elstone ranch which resulted in a decrease of 110 in the rabbit census.

Doctor Cupid

That love sometimes cures disease is a fact that has been called to the attention of the public by a prominent physician. Love is not, however, the cure for all women. Many a woman is nervous and irritable, feels dragged down and worn out for no reason that she can think of.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription gives new life and new strength to weak, worn-out, run-down women. "Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong and sick women well. It is now sold by all druggists in the United States in tablets as well as liquid form.

EVANT, TEXAS.—"I have used Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I was run-down and suffered from functional disturbances but 'Favorite Prescription' regulated me. I was so nervous I was miserable and could not sleep at night when I began to use the 'Prescription.' I had not taken a whole bottle until I could sleep well and got as stout as I ever was. I keep a bottle of 'Prescription' on hand and when I work and get tired I take a dose and it strengthens my nerves."—MRS. GEORGIA DEMERIS BERRY

Colds & Headache

"For years we have used Black-Draught in our family, and I have never found any medicine that could take a cold and headache. I don't know what we would do in our place," writes Mr. H. A. Stacy, of Bradyville, Tenn. Mr. Stacy, who is a Rutherford County farmer, recommends Black-Draught as a medicine that should be kept in every household for use in the prompt treatment of many little ills to prevent them from developing into serious troubles.

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

"It touches the liver and does the work," Mr. Stacy declared. "It is one of the best medicines I ever saw for a cold and headache. I don't know what we would do in our family if it wasn't for Black-Draught. It has saved us many dollars. I don't see how any family can hardly go without it. I know it is a reliable and splendid medicine to keep in the house. I recommend Black-Draught highly and am never without it."
